CANADIAN INDUSTRIAL ARTS EXHIBITION

under the auspices of

THE ROYAL CANADIAN ACADEMY OF ARTS

at Art Gallery of Toronto April 1938

The Academy wishes to thank all those who made contributions to this Exhibition. • It particularly desires to express its appreciation of the kind co-operation of The Art Gallery of Toronto for the Galleries; to The Royal Ontario Museum for its courtesy in lending the French Canadian wood carvings and Western and Quebec pottery; to Messrs. Kent-McClain, Limited, Messrs. Copeland and Duncan, Limited, for their courtesy in lending cases; and to Charles Comfort for Decorations.

THE ROYAL CANADIAN ACADEMY OF ARTS

The Royal Canadian Academy of Arts, in assembling this Exhibition, had three objects in view beyond the survey of the field to ascertain what had been accomplished; namely, to stimulate the Canadian artist to design for manufacture, to encourage manufacturers to use Canadian designs and motifs, and to urge the public to support the fabrication of Canadian motifs by Canadian designers. We regard this merely as an attempt, and in no sense as giving a complete picture of what has been done or is being done. We shall feel repaid if we have quickened interest in an art quality in manufacture • The longing for beauty is instinctive. Those who are called artists are more sensitive to it, and some are able to create it, but the surest guarantee of beauty in this modern, mechanistic world is the growing recognition that it has economic, as well as spiritual value—that beauty pays • Scientific laboratories have been established as an adjunct to business. They have not only justified themselves in creating new markets, but have added to the stock of human knowledge. Business having rendered a signal service, and served its own ends at the same time, it is conceivable that it will do as much for art, with equal and lasting results. • Art in Industry is becoming firmly established, and Industrial Art is as natural and logical an expression of this age as was Religious Art in the fifteenth century. The artist depicts what people believe in most. • Today, business offers the artist an inviting opportunity. He is asked to design the products of industry. The only patron who is disposed to pay for that beautification is Business. And Art, supported by Business, has within itself the seeds of perpetuation. If beautiful things are more profitable to the maker than ugly things, as we believe they are, then we can confidentially hope for the artistic betterment of our physical environment.
